YAHWEH GIVES THE PLAN FOR A PROPHET IN THE SPIRIT WAY OF A CAVE:

Let Me share this with you. When a servant in Yahweh's house begins a novice training plan, to that prophet, they feel that they are in the real world. They think that others would have a knowledge of how they are and would be able to feel the power that they play with in their spiritual bubble.

With power as a novice, you feel all spiritual engagements as if it's the real world, and no one would be able to convince you otherwise. God would keep novice prophets in a safety bubble to have them safe in their learning phase. And every now and then, I will let another one who comes near to be enabled to feel what you deal with. And those little encounters with your mantle are so you would know you are on course from an outside plan.

Take a look at how the ten-year cave training really was. You were in a spiritual cave that kept you from being looked upon. Only a glow from the cave entrance came forward to have anyone see that your spirit was not dark. But you were not given a plan to show your mantle in the cave.

I would literally have to tell any and all who would approach us that you were that person. If I didn't tell them, there would be no way to know that you have a calling. You see it; it's the deepest hidden place. And no one would see what you have without Yahweh making it clear to that person's spirit.

Now while in a cave, the person feels real spiritual encounters. They can taste power at the fullest planned released level. I let you taste it while you were in Kodiak, Alaska, while your husband was out to sea for long stretches. With him being removed from your house, there would be a permeation of what I will give you in the real world.

A prophet must have preparation periods and cave training where they spend time alone without others distracting them. I planned that cave training in a good way. Spiritual stripping is a needed way. While in the novice cave, it's difficult to get others to embrace you. Heavy striving leads in that person, always trying to prove that they are what Yahweh says.

No provision, no protection, and no power come in at full strength in that cave. The spiritual cave is the protection, not the mantle power in the office. So, while in the spiritual cave, all that is pushing into the earth is just a glow from the cave entrance. And while a prophet in a cave feels all the spiritual battles sent in by Yahweh, the real world does not know or acknowledge the mantle of the hidden one.

While in the cave, the hidden servant gives out notes to the outside world. They are called tester training. And with the testers, they are like a real assignment from the released way. The servant feels and tastes all spiritual engagement, but they are not given ways to let the world have a view of the mantle that the hidden prophet wears. All along, the hidden prophet in their tester work thinks that everyone else will embrace what they are, what Yahweh says. And then, great heartache and painful interactions come when they are rejected for the words they say are from Yahweh.

No one will vouch for a cave servant. The servant, in the hidden way, will tend to beg people to hear them. They beg for a platform to say their tester training. They beg to have a person say they will not doubt them. That's the cave. And while you were in the cave, other prophets spoke ill of your work. I could not defend you. You were not able to invoke Yahweh. You hated the cave except for when I let you have the greatest spiritual encounters ever felt in your training.

The cave brought great spiritual plans but gave no backing in proof of you having an office. So, prophets out there are not all out of the cave. They are hurting from the rejection, and they try to push their hidden mantle to have a way of being seen. But their moving of giving out their way has no mantle backing. Their calling and their training appear to fall on deaf ears and blind eyes.

Yahweh does not give a servant in a cave a platform to build. But novice cave prophets are out trying to build outlets. A pastor may also force out a cave dweller because they know of the person's calling. But it is not wise to go by the calling while ignoring the times of what is going forward. When a novice is called for office work, I will say that they have a certain calling, but I will state the person as My prophet while they are in the novice way. And that will confuse all who are not asking where the novice is in their prophet training. I look at the novice person as a finished work that will go through all that I give to walk out in the full work way.

The hidden prophet would mistake how I deal with them and attempt to vacate the cave. But no prophet in cave seasons will walk on their own way. And that will make some prophets have doubt. They go out and try to stand on their own and fail. Without power, they are just giving out their way.

But what did I do with you? While in the cave, I made you give out tester work for one whole year.

In 2011, there was a tester way that brought world-level multitudes from outside ways. They were begging you to come to their nation. They wanted you on their TV and radio programs. They were writing to you, begging for more. They were begging to covenant with your work. It was as if you were tasting power as a prophet out in the real world.

But you were not out in the real world. You were in the cave, getting small surgings to endure. And I wanted to keep you waiting with a reminiscing plan of what could happen.

But the real way of the cave was dark and lonely. No one could stay and stand without some form of revelation. You had to have sex when I said so that I could sync your husband. I could not let him feel your mantle, and I know that living without him having a small understanding would have been too much to handle. So, I would use natural sexual intercourse as a way to transfer your mantle into him for a way to give him a taste of what you were taking in.

You have no need to have a surging in a cave but to take in a full prophet taste of what it would be like in the real world. We let you taste what We have so that I could have you stay and not give up.

Now take a moment to see. Wow. That servant under a city in removed prophet work did a major slander against you while you were in the cave. She hid her bitter way with her acquaintances to make you look as if you are not actually hearing your God. Every now and then, it looked as if she was a prophet power way of caring, but no real understanding came your way. She would only know what I would tell her directly, and that made her more jealous that I would use someone with a horrible past. She could not look past your old way of sin and enter the way of looking at what Yahweh was planning to bring forward. And every time I gave a message to pour into her way, you struggled with her always rejecting it. And it was because I didn't back you, yet I gave you real tester messages in the cave.

They are still real—the messages—but to the outside hearer, if I have a novice cave servant give a message, it will most likely be rejected if I do not give the hearer revelation of what office you carry. Here is a way to clearly see: Let's say I tell you to tell your next-door neighbor that she will get a good job and she will be free to see her family. When you give her the will that I gave you to speak, if I keep her from the revelation of who you are and that We give you a real work as a prophet, there will be great doubt. She would even spit it out and curse you for spreading fake hope. She may even tell others how you were speaking falsely in the name of the Lord. She would gather other church people and say that you are a false servant who is off course, pretending that you are getting real messages.

But with you, I gave a real message, but no one will accept it when We hide who you really are unless I literally say it—that they should believe it. Now think of how many seasons of struggles I had you beg others to have faith in what plan you spoke. How many people rejected you while you were in the cave? Many. And the greatest rejection was with family members. They could not embrace the idea that We will build this work and make you a world-level prophet. They couldn't get past your old flaws, how you were when you lived in sin.

And now it looks as if a holier-than-thou is leading when We just push your way to be separated for office work. You would have understood him better if you could understand that he could not fully see you as a cave dweller. He could not get past the idea that you were keeping him from his family. But when I give glimpses, and a person still will not bend, then I cut them off from your mantle.

Cut-offs must happen before you take in the full real way in the real world due to how My anger is on the ones who speak ill of your way. Here is an example: Let's give a real heart action that happened with you. You were able to deal with a relative and their wife who was friends with your enemy due to how she rejected the message you say. You were kind and invited her to have meetings with you. You gave the relative's wife a way to meet with you to get to know what you have. But the relative could not control the wife gaining her perception from the bitter former friend. So, over time, Yahweh made a plan to bring up how the wife was really by making the relative meet with you alone. That made the wife infuriated to the point that she claimed the actions of her friend.

The wife told her now-husband, who is your relative that she is not going to come over or visit or let us come and be there in their dwelling. That would have been okay, but then your relative made a grave decision: The relative started telling lies. He covered his ways with how he was busy and that they were not available. Then they would stay and travel further to see him but made sure you were not included.

They made many excuses as to why they could not drive a short way. But they did not know that Yahweh enabled you to hear their conversations as if you were there in the room or on their phone call. The way you heard them yell about how you are and how he felt torn to please a bitter poisoned wife was not enough of a hindering plan to cut him off from you.

What is the gravest sin when any person deals with a real way of conversing with the One True God? It's telling lies. It is telling lies, continually making excuses, covering up what others do with being deceptive. A regular Christian can be in a person's circle with a one who continually tells manipulating words, but with a prophet—with a released prophet, My anger comes out strong, and I must defend My prophet.

I took you out of the cave on Halloween past and have had you transition over the last few months. And I have started giving you real world-level work even while transitioning your way, and at the same time, I gave the doubters and the haters of your way some visions of what you are capable of. I gave them a chance, and they chose against it. I had to cut them off so that My anger would not torture them, where they would desire death.

I cut them off, for the cave is done. And they had a way, if they wanted, to take in how what I showed them could have a valid plan. Now that I cut them off, they want to know why you did not fight hard and beg to stay near them. I could not give it, and when they read this, they will have an awareness. The hiding of a truthful way, lying to the God of the universe, caused him to lose an inheritance. He followed his wife and harbored ill ways of lies to hide how they were actually wanting the relationship.

And that plan of a power backing is offered once one is out of the wilderness and the cave. Now that former friend begs to get back, what will never happen. I told her no, and her way wonders why that I now stand with you when her false seeing way thought that I showed you as a false way. Why could you look false to her? While in the cave, My power did not back you, and others would take that as fact that power is not there and that the one who claims an office is a false prophet.

What plan should a person do with others who say they have a message from Yahweh? Give the message to Yahweh and ask Him to bring a clarity and understanding if it really is His will. Never should a person throw away what has been spoken by a prophet without first weighing it and asking for Yahweh to shed wisdom and understanding. If Yahweh gives no verbal backing to say, "Yes, that is My prophet, but they are in the cave, and My power will not back it," then no harm will come. But when Yahweh shares glimpses of what they have and yet a bitter former friend still chooses ill actions, I cannot give them the way to have My power that flows from My servant. Understand?

And that is why so many have a weary way about prophets who claim they are hearing Yahweh. Not many check to see what season that prophet is actually in. They look for provision, protection, and power from a prophet, but a novice cave prophet will not have that as a form of proof. That's why a great many prophets fail: they go out into real office work without the way of release from Yahweh.

The church outlet cannot release prophets for work. Only Yahweh can give the impartation for the full way of release.

I gave you an eighty percent power surging so that you can push out the work, but the full power way will come on Halloween after the third anointing is activated in South Florida. Do not skip the October trip. If you are not able to go because the state is on lockdown, a one-year holding will happen. That is why Yahweh pushed your starting of your three-year presentation to ensure that you are able to take that trip. Satan is battling the angels in the heavens above to have you stay a trapped way. The virus is overtaking, but ultimately, I cannot be held as a prisoner in chains.

How do you feel with hearing Me say that I did not back you in the cave because you were to be hidden in Me, learning how the mantle is to work? Do you have anger or just wish you understood that this way is how I really take care of prophets under My care? You are now out of My spiritual cave yielding a continual way of an eighty percent release so you can build and take in provision, protection, and power.

Within this transition, there are still filters on you and your mantle, but I will make My work come forward to have you greatly encouraged. See, even your loved ones could not embrace you, but now moving forward, there will be a great enough surging to make them have a drink. I will not have a high tolerance towards any who will continually bend their way through manipulation and telling lies.

We will take care of the final cut from the former way when Halloween is here. You are not a novice. Begin by giving out the Age of the Antichrist as a real world-level message. Include it in every book that is active as a world-level work. And I will give that little one a break so she will not suffer and turn away from serving Me. I now take the fog from her mother's memory and give it to the mother's sibling. Satan has to torment you by giving experiential training for a little while longer. See it, how _____ takes on that way.
