

THE MANTLE IS NOW FULLY ACTIVATED

YAHWEH LEADS IT:

He makes it seem that he would be sexually interested in a thin-looking woman. Is that all Michael expects? What about the woman who is a regular way? Your husband is not cheating but he wants a woman who is a regular way. But you never will be a regular woman. The surging that has begun to enter your way is not only coming down and surrounding you.

Servant, I started the spirit strip, and it cannot be hindered. The surging either draws people or makes them keep a distance. He uses your outer weight to justify he doesn't want to engage. But what if there is more to it? What if how you are turning is making those demons turn within him? Are you seeing it? Are you now having a real look? When would he ever want your way if there is a non-touching or non-looking at your way? When you are back to a regular, healthy weight, there will still be no change. He will still expect your way to enter his territory.

See it; the human body is a territory, a housing unit that can be entered. You are not forcing your way onto his territory. You wait for him to enter your way. How long would it take? Soon, it will not matter. So, in this spirit strip, My outer blue surging that comes into your way will no longer sit on the outside of you. It will lead you to look and behave as a new person. Seersgate, in outside ways, will have a takeover. There will be an ingraining.

All that has to take place: they will look at your outer way, and the covenant you have with Yahweh will begin to take over, causing the way of expelling the demons within others without them entering your territory. They can look at your picture and have a demon expelled. You would only have to show your outer way, and the demons would rise up. Why? You covenant with Yahweh to build this major outlet that will bring forward great ways of Kingdom order. Without My power, no one will have a way to see you. I made two elements in your mantle take a dormant way.

You can give a counsel, and that person will always say you are judgmental. They have a skewed way. They have a skewed, wounded way of how I deal with your way. And they may have poisoned the other to have you looked at as a judgy way. If they share what others are saying, what would make you not included in that way? They share all that you are. Imagine how much that other person got to learn. All of those private talks. All of those ways, telling them Yahweh's plan. All of those confident talks. You were under the same plan, and your personal way was not kept a secret. You cannot confide in someone who does this.

So, if she says to that person how you come across as judgy just with asking a private question, there will not be a private way of her giving out that power way in thoughts and causing these others to feel a certain way about you. Look at how you view those others based on what she has said. Imagine what they think, and tell Me, would there be a warped view of who you really are? Yes—all based on how negative that person is. So, your presentation from her way caused them to look at you in a negative way. She wanted to share with them but was not able to separate who you are training to become. So, they knew more than you think.

All of these seasons of her telling them about your way: and it all trickled down to that bitter city-level worker due to being in that other person's inner circle. All this time, you were tricked. That first person of connection has aired every painful plan over those seasons as a casual plan and gave your enemy a way to learn about the way you are, to hurt you. How can I ever let her in? Not until her flesh submits to Kingdom order.

You say certain areas need to come under order, but they are getting the same way of drinking in wisdom from others before they believe you. There is no trust with your way, not with them. You can give her counsel, but she will look to others to see her idea of real wisdom.

I cannot give her more than a 3 percent surging until she changes her way in how she sees you care for her. She can only see an overly religious person who is unstable, lacking real work and independence. She rates a person's worth based on looks and monetary gain. She just sees Me in you as a figment in your mental way who has a way of sharing but is not a real enough God to actually do anything. See, you look like a person who is all talk.

- "What is going on with her?"
- "She still thinks she will have what she has on her wish list."
- "But is she losing weight? Does she have a big following? Is she self-aware and able to take care of herself?"
- "No, she just sits at home, waiting on a God she claims will help her. But it's been years. Nothing is happening."
- "Maybe there needs to be an outlet for her to get help. Look at all the time wasted. There is no way I could look up to her. Her way of presenting God is a judgy way. If she wasn't this way in knowing, I would not pay her any attention."

Spirit Strip is now here. Take in all the needed changes. And do not bend from what We give.

See it, how others have a way to view how you are. I would tell you something, and they would go out and ask others if what you say is a true way. Do you feel tricked? You should. All this time, I wanted to tell you to have no more private talks with her way. How can I trust her? How can I have you be yourself when you are viewed as an "all talk" person? They will not have a way to drink an inner circle detail. She questions Me in an unhealthy way—no true way of believing that I will present you.

Imagine that other person who was told not to do that action: What if her main understanding of how you walk as came from that person? That's how one comment could have such a deep gash and have you looked at negatively as if you are the most religious, uncaring person that walks by.

All of them were learning about you from a wounded person who gossips and doesn't have discretion. Look at all the times you saw her share personal notes of others. Why would you have special treatment and be spared? Do not have any more private sharings. Take that break, as Yahweh says.

Go to Florida. The central part on the east coast to the south of Jacksonville—that is a plan that will flourish. Ask Michael if he would consider that plan, and would he take a short trip for a few days to look at the layout there and visit the friends in the Orlando way. You will have a full backing. I will have you enter a heavy presence on social media. I will have you take great photos of how the weight is taken from you. I will back up My promises. And I will stand with your way.

Provision, protection, and power are now active. Your mantle will now give it. I knew that that hurt. But I had to say why I do not want to confide in their way. A world-level work states that you can live anywhere. Bring all the books forward in the new layouts.
